THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 9, 1905.

Wealth in Wool

HE value to New Mexico of our sheep industry is hardly appreciated. even by our own people. According to the United States census in 1900, the number of sheep in the territory was, in round numbers, 5.000.000. Allowing for an increase of 20 per cent in the five years since the census was taken, we should now have six millions, and men who being tied to the railroad track is a have the best facilities for being well informed on the subject regard that time. These animals yield an average of five and one-half pounds of wool Greenland and German southwest per head annually, or thirty-three milion pounds per year. At present prices Africa are anxiously awaited. this brings twenty cents a pound, or a total of $6,600,000 a year.

clip. It is estimated that a million and a half of lambs will be sent to the eastern markets from the ranges of this territory during the season which is now drawing to a close-this after allowing for the considerable proportion retained on the ranges as additions to the permanent flocks. These young a total for the present year of $4,500,000, which, added to the sum received from wool makes a grand total of $11,100,000 which the people of New Mexico will receive for sheep and wool during the present year-or, estimating the present population of the territory at 275,000, we find that the sheep ranges bring us this year $46.36 per capita.

With these facts in mind it is not difficult to account for the numerous evidences of prosperity which are to be found in every section of the terrritory. New Mexico is growing rich, and from her own resources,

AS the result of Tuesday's voting there have been victories for decency take a hint as well as any want" all along the line, and it is difficult for the friends of good government to decide which of these grand achievements deserves the post of honor-to be placed at the head of the column. The routing of Tammany in New York, framed motto, God Bless Cur Home the deadly wounding of the Quay gang in Pennsylvania state politics, the This method of teaching religious eleaning out of the Augeun stables in Philadelphia and the turning down of truth has some commendable features. Ross Cox in Ohio and Boss Gormon in Maryland, are all so good that it is almost impossible to decide which is best.

Highly Artistic

HERE seems to have been something in the Journal's reference to that TRE meems to have been something in the Journal's reference to that that she never got married. She has meeting of the central committee which our usually amiable neigh- probably reached an age when it is bor at Santa Fe didn't like and he goes into a violent state of erup- quite safe to say that, tion thereat. He calls us all manner of bad names, but that is nothhas no argument with which to sustain his case, and hence we expected him given any flavor by feeding the hens to do so in this committee matter. That's commonplace, however; any the chump can call people ugly names, but it takes a real artist in the matter of storekeeper will ask. "Chocolate, vatalking around things to turn out work like this:

"The Journal intimates that Delegate Andrews has the membership of the committee in his hands and when he squeezes, the members squeak Should Delegate Andrews or any other man or set of men attempt to squeeze five-sixths of the membership of the committee, he would have a mighty tough time of it and one that would blow his political existence up to the blue vault of heaven as a charge of one hundred pounds of dynamite would shatter a drill hole."

Nothing short of desperation, or a very high sense of humor, could induce a practical man to shatter a "hole," but maybe that's part of the business for which the central committee is to meet tomorrow-to shatter the hole which Andrews and company made in the Enterprise bank. Though why should Mr. Andrews be expected or challenged to squeeze five-sixths. of the committee when four-sixths would answer every purpose just as well? Our delegate is too shread a man and to economical of his resources to waste his strength in any such way. But the reader must do his own guessing. Blowing a man's political existence up to the blue vault of heaven is too strenuous for us.

Jerome's Great Victory

R. JEROME has the honor of having made the bravest fight and won the grandest victory in the political history of New York. At the tion as south of town if the drill haptime of his nomination he stood alone, save for the petitioners that put him in the field officially and the promise of the Citizen's Union hitherto prevented a full flow esmanagers to do for him what they could. The party managers laughed at caping. Elliott and Ott, drilling seven put him in the field officially and the promise of the Citizen's Union him. Good citizens shook their heads gloomily. They thought he had no chance. All of the political organizations of the country were against him. Friday that spouts four feet over the In the betting he cut scarcely any figure.

But against all odds, Mr. Jerome took his place manfully, indifferent to everything but the great principle for which he had taken up the standard or serious mishap, of the people. In his first campaign speech at Carnegie hall, before an audience representative of Manhatan Island, he set forth his case plainly and earnestly. He presented himself not in the character of a crusader, but as a plain citizen whose service during four hard years had opened his eyes to the needs of his fellows-needs which no political puppet could fill.

From that day he went on unceasingly, the Globe says, unswerved by criticism or by laudation, his eye bent steadfastly upon the goal of liberation of the people from the domination of tyrannical bosses. Day by day his free from all polsops. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy strength grew. Hopelessness among his friends changed to confidence, confidence to assurance, until when the polls closed Wednesday night, he had achieved one of the grandest victories ever won by any man in the field of

IN considering this railroad question the Washington Star says, "It would be useless to close our eyes to the fact that considerable distrust of the senate exists in the country. It may be unjust, but the existence of the feeling is beyond dispute. Nine men out of ten who are in sympathy with for sale by all druggists the president, but fear that he may be defeated in his program, look askance at the senate. They have heard so very frequently that the senate is a sert of railroad round house, where much valuable stock is stored and a good deal of blowing off goes on, they have come to believe it."

THE Los Angeles Times man evidently thinks it is "just as easy to say a big word when your mouth's open." He says "instead of claiming that we will have here a city of 1,000,000 population let us stand on the simple stafement that Los Angeles will some day become the largest city in the
